

Air testing for new home construction is easy to achieve but additions or alterations to older homes which were built with far less energy requirements provide no easy way to air test just the addition or alteration. Air testing the whole house would certainly not meet the 5 air changes required. However, by utilizing Table N1102.4.1.1 should provide the equivalent of 5 air changes or less per hour.